

I believe Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has been a wonderful blessing to my family. We have much more time to spend together to use for needed studying and family activities. I do not believe the FCC should implement any laws to lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections, as that would lessen my quality time spent with my family. My family time is much more important than any business interruptions caused by unnecessary phone calls. With Indiana's Telephone Privacy law, I have received very few calls from any person/company trying to sell something to me without my first requesting it. I believe in American's freedoms, and I think a person's private home deserves to be free of unwanted solicitations. I don't know how many other states have similar laws like Indiana's, but I believe if they don't, the people would wish they did. Thank you for reviewing my comment. Please take it and any other comments in to serious consideration before acting on reversing our current law. Kimberly D. Chaney
